Mary Rose Strubbe Labor & Employment Writing Prize

DEADLINE DATE:

June 15, 2023

TOPIC

Papers on any topic relating to the law governing the workplace, such as employment law, labor law, employee benefits, or employment discrimination are eligible for the prize. Papers written for Chicago-Kent courses, internships/externships taken for academic credit, or self-conducted research are eligible.

REQUIREMENTS & ELIGIBILITY

Any current or former Chicago-Kent student is eligible; however, the author must have written the paper while a student at Chicago-Kent. Papers prepared for a paid work purpose will not be accepted. Entries must be the author's own work and not that of a group. Entries already published elsewhere are not eligible. By submitting the paper, the author verifies that it is that author's original work. The paper should clearly explain the governing law; be well-organized, creative, and persuasive; and display accurate mechanics and grammar. There is no page limit for entries.

AWARD

The award money will be a check of $5,000, awarded to one individual.

JUDGING

Entries are judged by a panel of Chicago-Kent faculty, who will conduct a double-anonymous review.

SUBMISSION

Papers should have a removable cover sheet with the entrant's name; contact information; expected or actual graduation date; and title. The title—but no other identifying information—should be on each page. Email your submission to strubbeprize@kentlaw.iit.edu by 11:59 p.m. on Thursday, June 15, 2023. Questions may be directed to Professor Nicole Porter (nporter@kentlaw.iit.edu).

During her 23-year tenure as professor at Chicago-Kent College of Law, Mary Rose Strubbe served as director of Legal Research and Writing, and assistant director of the Institute for Law & the Workplace. Upon her retirement in 2017, the Chicago Federation of Labor, faculty, and alumni joined together to establish the Mary Rose Strubbe Labor & Employment Writing Prize to honor her impact on the legal education of thousands of lawyers. The Strubbe Prize is awarded annually for the best piece of legal writing in labor and employment law by a Chicago-Kent student or alumnus/a.
